THE No. 183.

MARYLAND GAZETTE,

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtic.

WEDNESDAY, October 26, 1748.

PARIS, Auguſt 2.

IN the 20th paſt, all the ambaſſadors and foreign miniſters aſſembled at Compiegne, received by the poſt, under a ſimple cover, a proteſtation of prince Edward, with the ſame titles and qualifications which appeared in the manifeſtoes and declarations he diſperſed the laſt time he was in Scotland. The proteſtation is printed, and addreſſed to all kings, princes, and republican rulers, &c. it is dated at Paris the 10th of July, and ſigned C. P. R. theſe initial letters ſignifying Charles, Prince Regent. He proteſts by this act, againſt every thing that has or ſhall be done, or ſtipulated, in the aſſembly of Aix la Chapelle, or in any other aſſembly whatever, to his prejudice. The whole piece is conceived in the ſtrongeſt terms, and concludes in the form of an appeal, where he declares his reſolution of never deſiſting from his pretenſions. But as this proteſtation is conſider'd here as nothing more than a ſimple perſonal proceeding, it cannot hinder the effect of the ſtipulations in the 11th article of the preliminaries, which muſt rather gather new force, from the manner in which they will be confirmed by the definitive treaty.

Extract of a Letter from a foreign Miniſter at the Hague, dated Auguſt 2.

"Count de Podewils, miniſter from Pruſſia, who, ever ſince the ſigning of the preliminaries, ſeem'd to have forgotten the affair of Sileſia, has, for fear preſcription ſhould be pleaded, brought the matter again upon the carpet: And as the king of Pruſſia ſeems very deſirous of knowing what he has to depend on, he cauſes his miniſters to demand with the utmoſt importunity the execution of the 20th article of the preliminaries of peace. M. de Podewils has aſſiduouſly renewed his inſtances, and continues to be almoſt conſtantly at the heels of the Imperial miniſters, in order to procure the king his maſter a categorical anſwer, even before the opening of the congreſs of peace. Thoſe who pretend to be in the ſecret of affairs, ſay poſitively, that the diſpatches which the court of Berlin has ſent to the count de Podewils, have been occaſioned by virtue of a ſecret conference held at Hanover, ſince the arrival there of the duke of Newcaſtle; from whence it is inferr'd, that his Britannic majeſty takes the utmoſt pains to obtain ſuch a guaranty of Sileſia, as ſhall be to the ſatisfaction of his Pruſſian majeſty."

Genoa, Auguſt 3. Since all hoſtilities have ceaſed, a great number of merchant ſhips have arrived here from diverſe parts, laden with all ſorts of goods; and moſt of the merchants, who had retired on account of the late troubles, are already return'd to this capital. The Engliſh men of war, which 'til now have cruiſed in theſe parts, have orders to rendezvous at Portmahon, and thence return for England. No more ſhips will remain in the Mediterranean, than what are neceſſary to protect the commerce of the ſubjects of Great Britain.

Turin, Auguſt 3. It is certain that the king has exacted from the inhabitants of the Eaſtern Riviera 300,000 livres contribution, by way of reprizal for what the Spaniards have raiſed in the duchy of Savoy; and general Nadaſti continues likewiſe to raiſe contributions, either in money or forage, at Novi, Gavi, and other places in the neighbourhood.

Leghorn, Auguſt 5. The communication between this port and that of Genoa, has been opened for ſome days, much to the ſatisfaction of the inhabitants of both places.

Bamberg, Auguſt 11. Prince Repnin, commander in chief of the Ruſſian troops, was taken ill on Friday laſt, and died yeſterday in a fit of an apoplexy.

Nuremberg, Auguſt 12. Yeſterday general Lieven, who, upon prince Repnin's death, had taken the command of the Ruſſian army in the pay of the Maritime powers, paſſed thro' this place in his way from the firſt column thereof to that of the center. And orders having been received, for the troops which compoſed it to return to their own country, the Ruſſian generals had come to an agreement with the commiſſaries, for carrying back their ſick to Bohemia.

Extract of a Letter from a Perſon of Credit at the Hague, dated Auguſt 12.

"The laſt advices which we have received here from Aix la Chapelle intimate, that the miniſters plenipotentiary are in a violent ferment, the cauſe whereof remains entirely a ſecret; that even people of the higheſt rank are ignorant of it. We have however been informed by a miniſter of a German court, that there have been very high diſputes between the two principal miniſters plenipotentiary upon the ſecond article of the preliminaries, touching the words In Statu quo.

It appears too by theſe advices, that the king of Spain is far from having yet given up the matters of complaint, or motives, which had hinder'd him from immediately acceding to the preliminary articles; ſince it is ſaid in the act of acception of the marquis de Soto Major, that theſe motives, or matters of complaint, ſtill ſubſiſt. It therefore of courſe follows, that his Catholic majeſty ſtill reſerves to himſelf the right of ſupporting and making good theſe matters at the approaching conferences; and this agrees with what I have more than once intimated, that is to ſay, that the marquis de Soto Major has demanded eclairciſſements or explanations concerning certain grievances complained of; that this miniſter plenipotentiary has even made repreſentations upon this ſubject, and that he has been promiſed that regard ſhall be had to them at the enſuing conferences. This article alone may probably retard for ſome conſiderable time the concluſion of the peace, beſides many other incidents which have already ariſen, and which are every day ariſing, that tend to obſtruct the grand work; and theſe things probably will occaſion a delay therein, unleſs the intereſted powers determine them in a peremptory manner."

Bamberg, Auguſt 15. The funeral honours for prince Repnin, were performed yeſterday by three diſcharges of the cannon and ſmall arms, but the corpſe is to be conveyed to Riga. The Ruſſian troops are actually on their march, on their return home.

Aix la Chapelle, Auguſt 19. There is a perſon here from the Corſican malecontents, charged with a commiſſion to take care of their intereſts at the congreſs of peace. He has preſented a memorial upon this ſubject to the plenipotentiaries, but could obtain no other anſwer, than that affairs of the principal powers engaged all their attention, ſo that they had no time to ſpend upon thoſe of Corſica; but that when the definitive treaty was fully ſettled, what regarded that iſland, and other matters of leſs conſequence, would probably be taken into conſideration. In fact, the miniſters plenipotentiary continue their conferences with extraordinary warmth and application, and are ſaid to be ranging the materials which are to compoſe the definitive treaty.

Extract of a Letter from a Perſon of Diſtinction at Aix la Chapelle, dated Auguſt 20.

"We are impatiently waiting here for the arrival of the great day, of ſigning the definitive treaty. In the mean time we are informed, that the duke de St. Severin gave the following anſwer to the Dutch plenipotentiaries, upon their preſſing for an evacuation of Bergen op zoom and Maeſtricht: He told them, that there had been no change in his moſt Chriſtian majeſty's determination to reſtore thoſe places, as ſoon as the Auſtrians ſhould have evacuated the territories in Italy which belong to the republic of Genoa: That it was this circumſtance alone which would haſten or retard the giving up of the places that had been taken from the United Provinces: That it was very true, theſe reciprocal evacuations would have long ſince taken place, if the courts of Vienna and Turin would but have adopted, ſince their acceſſion to the preliminaries, the means that his moſt Chriſtian majeſty had more than once propoſed for facilitating that affair to the ſatisfaction of both the republics; but but that the court of Vienna having hitherto deferr'd from agreeing thereto, things were ſtill pretty much in the ſame ſtate between the empreſs queen and the republic of Genoa, no ſatisfaction having been made on either ſide, and no other ſtep taken towards the reconciliation than a ceſſation of hoſtilities: That this was the caſe; nothing could be regulated to the ſatisfaction of the States General ſo ſpeedily as the king had intended, becauſe it would be by no means juſt, that the allies of the crown of France ſhould remain neglected, and have no ſatisfaction given them, when, at the ſame time, thoſe of the court of Vienna ſhould be re-eſtabliſhed in their poſſeſſions by ſo remarkable a preference; and beſides, this did not at all correſpond with that equity and diſintereſtedneſs which his moſt Chriſtian majeſty looks upon as the only foundation that can render the peace happy and durable."

LONDON.

Auguſt 6. They write from Madrid, that orders have been ſent to Cadiz, for diſpatching an advice boat to the Weſt-Indies with inſtructions for the return of the galleons, with the treaſure on board, to the amount of ſeven millions ſterling; which is a plain indication that the miniſters of his Catholic majeſty look upon the peace to be as good as ſettled; ſo that we need fear no demands from that crown on any ſubject whatever, beyond what is contained in the preliminaries.

A pardon is paſs'd the great ſeal unto ſir James Kinloch, and James Stewart, of all treaſons, miſpriſions of treaſon, &c by them, or either of them, commiſted, on or before the 13th of April, 1748; provided they remain in ſuch places as his majeſty, his heirs, and ſucceſſors, ſhall from time to time appoint.

A pardon has alſo paſs'd the great ſeal to William Barclay, and 72 others therein mentioned, of all treaſons, felonies, crimes, and offences, by them committed on or before the 13th of April, 1748; with a proviſo they inliſt themſelves into his majeſty's ſervice to go abroad.

On Thurſday, George Mackenzie, Eſq; late earl of Cromartie, and his lady and family, ſet out from their lodgings in Pall-Mall for Devonſhire, to the place he is baniſh'd to for life, near Exeter.

There is a talk at Paris of the marriage of another daughter of France, beſides Madam Victoire to the duke of Savoy. The prince for whom ſhe is deſigned is ſaid to be one of the brothers of the Dauphineſs, in order to ſtrengthen the union betwixt the houſes of Bourbon and Saxony.

We hear from Bourdeaux, that great preparations are making by the merchants of that place, for ſolemnizing the concluſion of the peace, and the revival of trade with the Engliſh, the interruption of which had occaſioned an immenſe loſs to that great city. There are actually in the port upwards of 30 Britiſh veſſels, taking in their cargoes of wine, brandy, and other French commodities.

Auguſt 9. There are advices from Conſtantinople, both by the way of Vienna and Venice, which ſay, that the plague has broke out with unuſual vehemence in that city, and carries off vaſt numbers daily. The ſame deſtructive viſitation prevails at Alexandria, and in Egypt; at Smyrna in the Leſſer Aſia, and through the whole iſland of Cyprus; ſo that all the maritime ſtates of Italy are exceſſively alarmed, and omit no ſort of precaution to prevent the contagion from being brought into that country.

We hear from all parts of the country, that there is like to be as plentiful a crop of all ſorts of grain, as has been known in the memory of man.

Yeſterday's letters from diverſe parts of the country, particularly from the counties of Norfolk and Stafford, adviſe, that great ſwarms of locuſts have appeared in thoſe parts.

Auguſt 11. According to the laſt letters from Aix la Chapelle, things ſeem at preſent at a ſtand there; owing however to the prudent method, they ſay, of having the plan for the definitive treaty thoroughly examined by all the intereſted courts, that they may remove, before the ſignature thereof, the difficulties that often attend the different interpretations of which the clauſes of treaties are ſuſceptible, when a proper precaution is not taken to diſcard all obſcurity and equivocation, ——as was the caſe with regard to many of the articles of the treaty of Utrecht. All they wait for therefore is, the general approbation of the plan which has been drawn up conformable to the tenor of the preliminaries, with the extenſions agreed on between the miniſters, and ſent to the reſpective courts.

Auguſt 13. We learn from Berlin, that the generality of people continue there under the ſtrongeſt perſuaſions that a new alliance is under conſideration at Hanover, which will have a great effect in ſettling the pretenſions of ſeveral princes in Germany, and thereby prevent any new diſturbances from breaking out in the empire. It is alſo daily expected, that the marriage between his royal highneſs the duke of Cumberland and the youngeſt ſiſter of his Pruſſian majeſty will be publicly declared. Some will have it, that a diſlike to theſe meaſures has induced the marquis de Valori to deſire leave to return to France; but whether it be ſo or not, 'tis very certain that he was to ſet out on the 20th, N. S. and that he had actually preſented the abbé Loys, his ſecretary, to his Pruſſian majeſty, as the perſon charged with the affairs of the crown of France, during his abſence.

We hear, that as ſoon as the parliament meets for diſpatch of buſineſs, the young Pretender's proteſt will be ordered to be publicly burnt at the Royal Exchange, by the hands of the common hangman.

By ſeveral letters received yeſterday from Hanover, we are well aſſured, that his majeſty received an expreſs on the 5th, with the agreeable news, that the Ruſſian general had put the troops under his command upon their march back again to their own country, on Monday the firſt of Auguſt, N. S.

Auguſt 16. The Phœnix, capt. Maſon, from Carolina, came into the River on Sunday morning laſt, and brought with her the Mercury, Hargrave, from London and Gibraltar to Maryland, who had been taken by the Spaniards, but retaken by capt. Maſon.

Auguſt 18. The laſt letters from Holland ſay, that his ſerene highneſs the prince ſtadtholder has ſettled every thing to the ſatisfaction of the inhabitants of Haerlem; that the deputies from Friezland have had an audience of his highneſs; and that there is hardly any doubt to be made, but the tranquility of all the provinces will be reſtored, by the tender and timely interpoſition of their illuſtrious chief, who poſſeſſes in a ſupreme degree the confidence of the nobility, and the affection of the people.

They write from Paris, that the fleet intended to take poſſeſſion of Cape-Breton, is ſtill in the road of Breſt, from which place it will not ſtir 'til after the ſignature of the definitive treaty of peace.

ANNAPOLIS.

On Friday laſt one Th——s Sh——ng——n, of Talbot County, was convicted at the Bar of the Provincial Court, of forging a Judgment Bond; for which Offence he was ſentenced to ſtand half an Hour in the Pillory, to have one of his Ears cut off, to be impriſoned for twelve Months, and to pay the Party aggrieved four hundred Pounds Currency, with double Coſts; the firſt Part of which Sentence was immediately put in Execution.

This Day the Snow Mary, Capt. Brown, (the late Commander John Ramſay having died on the Paſſage,) arrived in 9 Weeks from London, with 52 Felons.

Mr. Green,

I Underſtand that ſeveral Maſters of Ships, and others, are alarmed at the Opinion I gave (which was publiſhed in your Gazette), upon a Caſe ſtated on ſome Parts of the Inſpection-Law; which I ſtill think is right, on the Queries ſtated.

But I am alſo of Opinion, that a Maſter of a Ship, who clears by the firſt of December, is not obliged to deliver ſuch Manifeſts as that Law requires, to the Naval Officer that clears him; and that ſuch Maſter may make a Poſt-Entry, and muſt give in ſuch Manifeſts, for all the Tobacco he takes on board after the firſt of December, as the Act requires; viz. of all the Tobacco of the Growth of 1748; and an Affidavit, or Affidavits, that any other Tobacco was of the Growth of ſome preceding Year, or Years.

D. DULANY.
